

DEWEY AT NICE; WELL RECEIVED

Frenchmen Accord Admiral the Greatest Honors.

IMPRESSION MADE WAS MARKED

Hero of Manila Denies Report
That He Was Slighted at Trieste.

A cable dispatch from Nice, France, says: Thursday morning, Admiral Dewey, accompanied by Flag Lieutenant T. M. Brumby and the United States vice consul at Nice, returned the visit made by M. Granet, prefect of Alpes-Maritimes.

The visitors were shown through the rooms of the prefecture, the former palace of the kings of Piedmont. The party then called on General O'Farrell, the acting military governor, whom Admiral Dewey thanked for the permission he had received to land and drill his men at Villefranche during the remainder of the cruise Olympia's stay at that place.

The Americans also called on Naval Commissioner Duval, whom Admiral Dewey thanked for the port facilities which had been granted to his vessel. The admiral asked M. Duval to transmit his thanks to the maritime prefect at Toulon for sending cruisers to salute the Olympia on her arrival.

The inhabitants of Nice gave Admiral Dewey an ovation as he passed through the streets. He returned to Villefranche at noon.

Admiral Dewey expresses regret in regard to the incorrect reports concerning his reception at Trieste. He says it was courteous and hearty, the minister of marine coming especially from Vienna to greet him.

"Not only myself," added the American admiral, "but every one on board the Olympia received every possible attention."

Admiral Dewey created a marked impression while in Nice, all those who saw him being struck with his extreme amiability and modesty.

STORM RECORD APPALLING.

Latest Reports Say That a Hundred Lives
Were Lost Along Coast.

A Norfolk, Va., dispatch says: Accounts in many respects conflicting continue to come in from the Albemarle and Pamlico sound region and the coast from Hatteras to Bodys island, in which section the greater number of casualties occurred as a result of the great storm of August 15th to 18th inclusive.

It is now thought that the total drowned will run close to 100 if it does not overreach it, while at least on the islands in the vicinity of Portsmouth fully sixty to seventy houses, four or five churches and numerous stores, barns and warehouses were either washed away or damaged beyond repair, and as a result numbers are homeless and destitute.

WORKMEN ELECTROCUTED.

Repairing Street Car Tracks They Came In Contact With Current.

At New Orleans, Wednesday, two negroes were killed outright, two were painfully burned and shocked and eighteen others severely shocked while engaged in the reconstruction of the St. Charles avenue electric car line. The men had placed a rail against a pole charged with 500 volts of electricity, due to the defective insulation. Two negroes who fell across the rail were instantly killed.

A third also fell across the rail, but was dragged away and his life saved.

CARS TUMBLED INTO RIVER.

Passenger Train On the K. C. P. & G.
Plunged Into Little River.

A message was received at Texarkana, Ark., early Saturday morning to the effect that a northbound passenger train on the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railroad went into Little river fifty miles north of Texarkana. A switch engine with crew has left for the scene. The wreck is between stations and it is not known how much of the train went off the bridge. It is known, however, that the baggage, mail and express cars went in.

LABORI ATTENDS COURT.

Wounded Barrister Rapidly Recovering—Judge of Courtmartial Reveals Partiality.

The third week of the Dreyfus trial at Rennes, France, began without incident at 8:30 Monday morning.

M. Labori was present. He drove to the court in a carriage and entered the hall at 8:30. The audience greeted him by standing up and by a general clapping of hands.

Maitre Labori walked quite briskly, but holding his left arm close to his side in order not to disturb the wound. He met General Mercier and General Billot in the middle of the courtroom, stopped, chatted and smiled. Labori looked very well. He was given a cushioned arm chair. Madame Labori, looking well, was also in court. Labori was warmly congratulated by his friends. Captain Dreyfus, on entering, smilingly shook hands with Labori.

It is said the court will get through with the ninety odd witnesses by the beginning of September, and it is probable that the verdict will be delivered about September 7th.

All of the witnesses examined during the day were hostile to Dreyfus, but as none of the evidence was fresh but mostly a reiteration of the old statements, the audience followed the depositions with comparatively little interest.

The session wound up with a scene, on account of extraordinary conduct of Colonel Jouanet, president of the court, who permitted himself to make an unwarrantable display of partiality.

M. Bertulus had been confronted with the last witness, Captain Junck, and General Gonz had defended the latter when Colonel Picquart was asked to be allowed to refute some of Junck's remarks. Colonel Jouanet made a gesture of impatience and shouted: "What, again?"

An outburst of loud hissing came from the audience at such a display of unfairness from the president. Judges and gendarmes quickly suppressed the noise, but Colonel Jouanet understood the well-merited rebuke administered him, turned red and adjourned the court ten minutes later.

KAISER'S CABINET TO RESIGN.

Members Hold a Meeting and Reach That Decision—Emperor William Absent.

A special cablegram from Berlin, Germany, states that Monday afternoon a cabinet meeting was held at the residence of Prince Hohenlohe, the imperial chancellor, and the whole cabinet agreed to resign.

The acceptance of the minister's resignation is uncertain.

Emperor William will return to Berlin on Wednesday, when, it is reported, he will preside at the cabinet council and decide what steps are to be taken.

All kinds of rumors are afloat. One paper asserts that the kaiser has accepted the resignation of the whole cabinet. Others are of the opinion that the fall of Dr. Von Miquel will entail the fall of Prince Von Hohenlohe also, but nothing will be definitely known until the emperor arrives.

The newspapers are still actively commenting upon the difficulties of the situation.

A Rubber Leg.

An English inventor has devised a very ingenious artificial leg and foot intended for use in cases of amputation below the knee joint. It is mainly composed, according to the Scientific American, of a hollow rubber chamber, which is inflated in exactly the same way as a bicycle tire. The skeleton of the foot is of wood, and contains within it a rubber-faced joint, which permits of movements like those that take place at the ankle. A pair of rubber pneumatic pads surround the end of the amputated limb, so that no undue pressure is exerted on the tissue.

CONSTIPATION

"I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injection. Chronic constipation for seven years placed me in this terrible condition; during that time I did everything I heard of but never found any relief, such was my case until I began using CASCARETS. Most Popular Wedding Day.

So far as the day of the week is concerned, Wednesday is the favorite wedding day. If there were anything in the antiquarian theory, the favorite wedding day among the Anglo-Saxons ought to be Friday, for Freia, the Saxo-goddess after whom our day of ill-luck and misfortune was named, was, like Juno, a patroness of matrimony, but no English or American girl, however devoid of superstition, would care to take the risk of being married on Friday. Freia was the wife of Woden, who has given the name to our Wednesday, but the transfer of the favorite wedding day for weddings from the day of Freia, as among the pagan Saxons, to the day of Woden, was probably caused by convenience rather than by any regard for the feelings of either Woden or his spouse. Wednesday is the middle day of the week, and therefore the most convenient, for it affords time for preparation after the preceding Sunday, and opportunity for travel before the Sunday following.—St. Louis Republic.

THE BLIND HAVE NOT KEENER SENSES.

German Iconoclast Demolishes a Long-Established Belief.

A long series of experiments has recently been made by Prof. H. Grisebach, of Basle, upon the relative acuteness of the senses of hearing, touch, taste and smell in the case of the blind and those who possess normal vision. The results are contained in Pfleger's Archiv. The observations were made on those who were otherwise healthy. In the differentiation of tactile impressions no remarkable differences were observed between the seeing and the blind, or if small differences did exist they were in favor of the seeing. In those born blind the tactile sharpness was somewhat less than in the seeing, and in some cases the sensorium generally was equally defective. The blind in particular feel less acutely with the tip of the index finger than do those who see, and in many cases the tactile acuteness of the two index finger tips differs. In the blind, especially in the region of the hand, a stronger impression is required to produce a tactile impression than in those possessed of sight.

In the capability of localizing impressions of sound no difference exists between the blind and the seeing. In both general individual variations occur. As a rule, both in the seeing and the blind the use of the organ of both sides gives better results than the use of one alone. No difference in the acuteness of hearing exists between the blind and those who see. No relation was observed between the acuteness of hearing and the power of localizing sounds in either the seeing or the blind. No difference was observed in the two classes in regard to the acuteness of smell.

In the execution of manual labor the blind become fatigued sooner than do those of equal age who see. The blind are more fatigued with manual than with mental work, which is not the case with the seeing of the same age. If any difference exists in regard to exhaustion after mental labor it is in favor of those of the same age who see. Both among the blind and the seeing, there are persons who have many, others who have only a few, and others again who have no illusory or erroneous impressions of touch.

These events are in many respects opposed to generally received opinions, for it is usually supposed that deprivation of sight leads to exaltation of the acuteness of the other senses, especially of the touch and hearing.

A Centenarian Bride.

It is never too late to marry, but it is rarely that we hear of the bonds of matrimony being entered into when one of the contracting parties has reached the century mark. The record in such cases was broken when a few days ago Mrs. Mary Duncan was married to Mr. James Morgan at Galena, Kas. The blushing bride had passed through three experiences at the altar, but had outlived at eighty years the third of her husbands. When she met Mr. Morgan she had completed two years of her second century, and in a month would have reached the good old age of 103.

The bridegroom is thirty-two years younger, and not a novice as a benedict. He has twice assumed marital ties and responsibilities before. But he has not carried his years a bit better than the sprightly old lady who is his new helpmeet.—Philadelphia Times.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has just unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected for forgery, notably Hamilton's $1000 note, which has many imitations but no equals for its beauty and general quality. It is a pity that counterfeiters do not select the same quality of paper for their forgeries as they do for the real thing.
